

mittee designate him, and that if I would do what the Chief wanted me to do regarding appointments, investigations and other matters of State policy I would be permitted to name some lawyer who was a friend of mine as the candidate for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals. I refused, as I have said, to make any bargain with McCall and Murphy about these matters, and the Judge seemed to be disappointed. He wanted my pledge that I would support him for the Chief Judgeship and, of course, his designation for this high office was dependent entirely upon him. Mr. Murphy, the Mr. Hennessy would be called off and all investigations stopped concerning the tremendous graft in the Highway Department."

Circular Urges Republicans to Knife Fusion.

Circulars were sent through the mails to day signed Loyal Republican League, Broomfield, N. Y., Secretary, No. 30 East Forty-second street, in which attack is made upon the Progressives and Independent Democrats who dominate the Fusion movement. The circular says:

"Frederick, Roosevelt and Mitchell defeated the nomination of Whitman for Mayor because he is a Republican, and are now planning to defeat the Republican Assembly and Aldermanic candidates. As there are no regular Republican candidates for Mayor and Comptroller, let us Republicans show our contempt for traitors, scoundrels and renegade Republicans by voting for Mr. Call and Metz. Remember the Roosevelt-Frederick-Mitchell platform means the destruction of the Republican party."

State Chairman William Barnes, County Chairman Samuel Koenig and Martin Saxe, representing the Republican organization in Fusion headquarters, united in denouncing the circular as a Tammany fake.

"It was originated and scattered broadcast by Tammany," said Mr. Saxe. "No Republicans had any connection with it, nor will they permit themselves to be influenced by it. The alleged headquarters in Forty-second street consists of one room hired for the purpose by Tammany. We know nothing of a Loyal Republican League, nor can we find who is Elmer E. Johnson, signing himself as secretary."

Court Discharges Sulzer Secretary From Arrest.

James C. Garrison, campaign secretary to former Gov. Sulzer, who was arrested and confined in the penitentiary at Albany on a charge of contempt of the Assembly, received word to-day that Judge Cochrane had discharged him from arrest. Garrison has been out on bail for about a week. Sulzer immediately sent a telegram to Attorney John T. McElroy, Albany, to inform him of his "victory for justice and the freedom of the press."

NOVEL SUIT IS FILED IN U. S. COURTS TO GIVE SULZER OFFICE

William H. Moore Sues in Effort to Reinstatement Governor and Oust Glynn.

A suit was filed in the office of the Clerk of the United States District Court this afternoon which, it is intended, will have the effect of bringing the impeachment of William Sulzer and his removal from office before the United States Supreme Court for review. The nominal plaintiff is William H. Moore, a compositor, who lives at the Hotel Albany and his counsel, who drafted up the papers, is John Leary, who lives at the Hotel St. Andrew. Mr. Moore is an ardent Sulzerite.

In his petition, which is bulky, Mr. Moore takes the novel ground that his constitutional rights have been invaded because New York is not under a republican form of government as guaranteed by the constitution and he prays for relief. He asks for an injunction restraining Gov. Glynn and all the other officers of the State from performing any of the functions of their offices. In fact, the suit is directed against the Government of the State. William Sulzer is made a co-defendant. The purpose of this is to enable Sulzer, in case the matter gets into court, to prove his contention that his removal was the result of a conspiracy. Mr. Moore takes the ground that the impeachment of Gov. Sulzer was illegal and that the State Government is now in the hands of the persons who intimidated and carried out an illegal conspiracy by which they seized the government.

In case the local branch of the District Court refuses to give Mr. Moore the relief he asks he will appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. He says he thinks he will get his proposition before that tribunal early in December.

ALBANY, Oct. 30.—"Such a suit to restore Sulzer to power is absurd," said Attorney-General Carmody to-day. "I cannot believe that any one would bring such an action."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—There are no precedents for the Supreme Court reviewing impeachment proceedings as such. The injunction proceedings filed in New York to-day might come to the highest court for review on the contention that Federal constitutional rights had been denied to Sulzer. For that much there is legal provision for a Supreme Court review. Should the case be forwarded from the lower court it undoubtedly would be expedient, otherwise a decision would not be reached in regular course much under three years.

PLAGUE DEATHS IN MANILA.

Two Persons Die of Disease Taken to City by Bats.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Correspondence from Manila reports two deaths there from bubonic plague, one of them being that of William Crozier, a newspaper editor. A number of infected rats have been found and every effort is being made to rid the city of them.

TAMMANY WON'T LET YOU LAUGH AT FUNNY BANNERS

Ben Moses Tried It at No. 170 Broadway and Got Biffed in the Eye.

THEY HIT AT "BOSSSES."

That's the Funniest Part, but Don't Laugh -- Not Out Loud.

You are defied to walk along Broadway and pass No. 170 without laughing. To-day it's the funniest spot in New York. On the other, you are cautioned not to laugh too loud. Ben Moses of No. 3 Park Row made this mistake, and is paying at present for his ill-timed mirth with a bruised body and a partly closed left eye.

Strung across the street and whipped by the wind like the sails of a full rigged ship are streamers bearing the following legends:

100,000 LIES AGAINST MC CALL
WANTED
$100 PER LIE PAID
NEITHER SULZER NOR HENNESSY NEED APPLY.

Other banners offer the following: "McCall's Freak Show: Johnnie Mitchell, Scoundrel Sulzer, Blather-skite Hennessy, Hearst, Stillwell. Why not add Harry K. Thaw, Becker?"

Who said bossess? What's Hearst? What's Roosevelt? What's Koenig? What's Glasgow? Bosses all. Poor Mitchell!

A large banner that takes itself more seriously reads: "McCall, the Unscrupulous Business Lawyer and Upright Supreme Court Judge, Financially and Mentally Honest, Broad Gauge, Horse Sense, Frank, Outspoken, Fearless Fighter. No Fads, No Mental Kinks, No Hobbies. Career Built to Be Made. Dangerous for the Rent and Tax Payer. New York Wants Business and Not Experimental Menace."

To come back to Moses, like a hundred other observers he found the banners irrepressibly funny. In fact, he remarked to neighbors that they were the funniest things he had ever read in his life. But he laughed too loud and too long. The first of merriment that seized Moses and convulsed him was like an earthquake.

Two young bystanders who chose to take the banners seriously, asked wherein lay the humor and the comic stuff. Moses did not answer. They then set upon him, Moses declares. The too long and loud laughter of Moses' too long and loud laughter, under the banner that was inflated with laughter. The first of the other lodged on Moses' left eye. Moses is trying to find his two young assailants to prefer charges of assault.

There is one little thing that ought to be mentioned in connection with the gay, festive streamers. They are full of round holes about the size of very small cannon balls.

Can it be that their arguments have been shot full of holes by the Fusion forces?

DELANEY DECLARES ILLITERATE DUMMY IMPERSONATED HIM.

John H. Delaney, State Commissioner of Education and Economy, said to-day, in speaking of an alleged "detection" record of a conversation with Gov. Sulzer:

"The alleged conversation was manufactured for the occasion. Those who knew me will recognize that the language could not be mine."

"I never in my life used the expressions 'But your life, keep mum' and many others quoted. If there is any kind of a record of this alleged conversation in the possession of the Bureau agency some illiterate fellow was made to impersonate me."

"Not one single statement attributed to Sulzer and not a single response attributed to me was uttered at the real interview. I had with the Governor when he asked me to swear falsely in his behalf."

"The version of that interview in my statement made Tuesday is true. I did not speak two hundred words and I did not speak two hundred words and I did not speak two hundred words."

We know that it was Delaney, said Mr. Hurns, and we are prepared to prove it. We are positive that he was the one who held the conversation with Sulzer recorded by the "detection" agency. A "detection" will not lie. We are prepared to stand by all that was recorded in this conversation if Mr. Delaney cares to sue."

THE CHIEF ISSUE IN THE CAMPAIGN

"CHIEF" CALLS HIS VOTE CANVASSERS TO STAR CHAMBER

Sub-Leaders, Big and Small, to Give Figures on McCall's Chances.

Tammany election district captains have been called to meet in their respective Assembly district headquarters to-morrow night to report to their leaders the actual conditions and tabulations of the probable vote.

Assembly district leaders are to meet "Chief" Murphy on Saturday to make their reports and tell the very worst that is to happen to them. Then the inner council in the Wigwam will know what to expect on Election Day.

The reports of district leaders are subject to close scrutiny and analysis. They must be based on facts, not upon guesses and hopes. Each man must give the basis for his report and stand cross-examination upon it. In the secret session they will tell just how bad things are going. Then "boss" Murphy will add up the figures and prepare for what is coming next Monday.

If there is chance of victory, either in the city or in any particular borough, or if some individual candidate looks up a possible winner, then word will be passed around and politics; work will be concentrated upon these strong points and the sports will make plunges in the betting.

According to preliminary estimates, Tammany is counting upon carrying local tickets in the boroughs of Manhattan, Queens and Richmond. If they can pull through Metz for Comptroller, and three Borough Presidents, they will gain strong representation in the Board of Estimate even if the Fusion Mayor is elected.

TAMMANY RELYING UPON THE LABOR UNIONS.

Tammany is making its strongest play in the closing days of the campaign on the labor unions. Strenuous efforts are being made to get as many unions as possible lined up for the Democratic ticket and to adopt resolutions favorable to McCall. Word is being industriously circulated that "McCall is a union man; Mitchell is a scab."

According to reports from Tammany headquarters a large majority of the labor unions in New York have declared themselves directly or indirectly for McCall. Twenty-two unions are said to be scheduled for meetings to-morrow to take some kind of action.

Political endorsements are forbidden by the constitutions of many large unions, but Tammany is seeking to get around this by having resolutions adopted commending the Democratic party of both State and city for having appointed James M. Lynch, head of the Typographical Union, State Labor Commissioner.

Fusion's Big Rally To-Night.

To-night, at Madison Square Garden, the Fusionists are to hold the biggest rally of their campaign. Seth Low will preside, and among the speakers will be Charles S. Whitman, Oscar S. Strauss, Martin W. Littleton, Clarence J. Shearn and John Purroy Mitchell. Olive Fremstad is to sing before the speaking begins, and prior to the meeting there will be a parade to the music of forty bands, a display of fireworks and any amount of red fire.

Accepts Call to Richmond Hill.

(Special to The Evening World.) MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Rev. Walter Austin Wagner, for the past five years pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, has received a call to the pastorate of the Union Congregational Church at Richmond Hill, L. I. It is expected that he will present his resignation to the church here on Sunday and arrange to assume his duties at Richmond Hill about the first of December.

STEAK RARE, MEDIUM AND WELL DONE BROKE UP HIS HAPPY HOME

Sometimes Jacobson Got Cutlets, but Steak Always Came Back.

Here are the reasons presented to Justice Gleicher in the Supreme Court to-day by David Jacobson, manager of a hat business in Canal street, as to why he sought to get a separation from his wife, Lillian:

"Your Honor, I never got a meal in my house during the week-only on Sundays, and then it was the same old story of steak one week, the next week cutlets, the following week steak, and so on in an endless chain. This got on my nerves."

"I had a fondness for moving pictures. Went to at least two shows a day. 'She never took care of my things.' He says she refused to put camphor balls in his best suits of clothing."

The Jacobsons were married in this city Sept. 1, 1908. Justice Gleicher reserved decision.

CLANCY'S RESIGNATION DECLINED; HE SCORES HENNESSY AT ALBANY.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Supt. John H. Riley of the State Prison Department and James M. Clancy, who recently resigned as Warden of Sing Sing Prison, held a long conference to-day, and later Riley announced he would not accept the resignation at present. Clancy issued a statement condemning Hennessy for his public references in the New York Majority campaign to former Senator Stillwell's efforts to obtain a pardon.

"Clancy," Riley said, "is in the midst of important work connected with the reconstruction of certain buildings which were partially destroyed by fire last July and also was carrying out certain reforms which he had instituted. He must remain and complete the work."

Clancy's statement follows: "I came to Albany at the request of the superintendent to arrange to turn over Sing Sing to my successor. He declined to consider the matter at the present time on the grounds that I am under $50,000 bond and must continue until other arrangements can be made."

Regarding the contents of the Black Book which Mr. Hennessy has exhibited in his speeches in New York, I can only say that Stillwell assures me that he would be entirely willing to release Mr. Hennessy from his obligation not to publish it but for the fact that it contains references to individuals and matters which were in no way connected with the Sulzer controversy. Stillwell regards Hennessy's references and insinuations regarding the interview had with him at Sing Sing as dishonorable in every way and as taking an unfair advantage of him in his present unfortunate condition.

Stillwell says that he is forced to the conclusion that when Hennessy found that he was not in possession of such information as would enable him to destroy certain Senators and others in public life he concluded not to advise the Governor to pardon him. That being the fact, under the solemn agreement made in the presence of several persons, no reference to the interview should have been made."

When a Man is in Love.

(From the Metropolitan Magazine.) Love was under discussion, and the time-old "When-a-Man-in-Love" question came up. "A man is in love," said one, "when it gives him physical pain to tear up the slightest of her notes. 'When'—but it would be violating confidence to tell other answers. One only—the best—we begged leave to print. 'A man isn't really in love,' said this romantically astute old gentleman 'until he begins to skip the descriptions of her in novels he reads, saying, 'What's the use of reading that? I'll have her looking like her and talking like her anyway.'"

One almost does an epileptic seizure at that.

EXTRA STANDS AT CAMBRIDGE FOR YALE GAME

Seating Capacity Will Be 45,000 When Old-Time Rivals Clash.

(Special to The Evening World.) CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 30.—Extra stands are being erected for the Yale contest booked for November 22 in the Stadium and when completed 45,000 spectators can be comfortably seated within the big cement horseshoe. This will give a thousand more people a chance to watch the Blue ribbon event of the college football season than did two years ago.

Nine tons of marsh hay has been ordered and at the first signs of frost it will be dumped onto the gridiron from time to time to keep the ground from becoming hardened.

Light work will prevail in the Crimson camp to-day. The injuries to Eddie Mahan, Rex Hitchcock and Frank O'Brien have greatly depressed everybody from Coach Haughton down to the water boy, and with the Princeton contest but a fortnight away, victory does not appear to be the certainty the Crimson players have been figuring on. Only the most expert of care will bring Mahan into shape for the tussle with the Tigers and again he may not be able to get into action again this fall.

Hitchcock cannot go out and do his share until the Princeton engagement. Frank O'Brien said this morning that the Crimson backfield will be weakened considerably both offensively and defensively. The great Brickley, while an elegant line runner, is one of the poorest defensive players Harvard has ever had behind its line. He is continually missing tackles or collaring his opponent about the neck to down him. Brickley, who will substitute for Mahan, is a rugged youth and may be of material aid in offsetting the Brickley weakness.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL.

Where there's a will there's a way—to get into trouble or out of it, as the dies may fall.

Perhaps no other will, since the birth of Time, has caused so many weird complications as did "The old Doctor's."

Who was he? He was the man whose last testament started all the excitement in the funniest story of the decade. The story is "WHERE THERE'S A WILL."

"WHERE THERE'S A WILL" is by Mary Roberts Rinehart. Mary Roberts Rinehart is America's greatest woman humorist. She wrote "Seven Days," the story that set two continents in a roar. And "WHERE THERE'S A WILL" is even funnier than "Seven Days."

"WHERE THERE'S A WILL" is to run serially in The Evening World, beginning Monday, Nov. 10.

Don't forget the date, Monday, Nov. 10. That's the day you will begin laughing.

RARE JEWELS STOLEN.

Home of T. J. Oakley Rhinelander Robbed and News Suppressed.

Robbers entered the home of T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, at No. 36 West Fifty-second street, it was learned to-day, on the night of Oct. 27 and took jewelry worth at least $5,000. The police kept all news of the theft under cover until to-day and it was reported that he amount of the theft was much greater than that admitted.

The robbery was discovered when the Rhinelander family returned from a theatre party late at night. The list of missing jewelry sent to pawn brokers included two diamond rings, a diamond bar pin and barrette, a pearl and diamond pin, and a large gold blue enameled watch with a gold chain.

Mr. Rhinelander has law office at No. 21 William street.

WHITMAN ORDERS JOHN DOE INQUIRY IN HENNESSY CASE

Investigator Will Be First Witness To-Morrow and "Black Book" Will Be Used.

Because of the charges brought by John A. Hennessy and William Sulzer against various persons in and out of office District-Attorney Whitman ordered to-day that a John Doe inquiry be inaugurated in the Criminal Courts Building to-morrow afternoon. Chief Magistrate McAdoo will preside.

The first witness will be John A. Hennessy. He will be examined by Mr. Whitman. Hennessy's "little black book" will figure in the examination. Whether Mr. Sulzer will be called has not been decided.

The District-Attorney is determined to go into Hennessy's charges in detail. He has received, in addition to the "little black book" from which Hennessy has been delivering quotations at intervals, all the information Mr. Hennessy gave to Assistant District-Attorney John Kirkland Clark in two conferences.

It is understood the "little black book" is merely a rather disconnected record of an interview between Hennessy and ex-Senator Stephen Stillwell in Sing Sing Prison and that it does not contain anything in the way of direct evidence. At any rate, Stillwell will undoubtedly repudiate the conversation.

The implied charge of Mr. Hennessy that a certain Justice of the Supreme Court paid $5,000 for his nomination in the shape of a note will not be taken up by Mr. Whitman. The matter has been investigated. It was found that this judge, nine years ago, borrowed $5,000 from a woman client and gave her a note for it. This was long before his election.

Assistant District-Attorney Embree, who has been in Albany and other up-State points investigating Hennessy's charges that Charles B. Murphy and his "brogue" collected huge sums from contractors and never accounted for the contributions, reported to-day that he could find no corroboration. He said that some of Hennessy's minor charges appear to have some basis of fact, but the most of them are hearsay and not susceptible of proof.

LABORERS STOP FIRE THAT HAD THREATENED BLOCK

6-foot trench and embedded in cement the old pipes are raised and every effort has been made to reduce the interruption in the service to a minimum. WHEN PICK STRUCK PIPE SPARK DID THE MISCHIEF.

About 10 o'clock, when there were a dozen workmen in the trench, just at the crossing of the two streets, one struck his pick point heavily against the side of the rust-damaged main now in use. The pick steel struck a spark which started the flow of gas.

The instant of the explosion a solid column of flame shot up from the torn envelope of the pipe one hundred feet or more above the street level. The tip of it spread out like the fronds of a palm tree and waved with licking tongues of red fire as palm leaves shaken by a wind. There was a roaring from the vent five feet below the surface of the street that could be heard a block away.

The passengers on a passing Eighth avenue car tumbled readily from both front and rear exits at the first thunder of the explosion. Storekeepers rushed from their shops to places of safety. Chester A. Noah, who owns a shop at No. 482 Eighth avenue, ran to the nearest box and turned in an alarm.

HIGH PRESSURE EASILY FORCES GAS THROUGH WATER.

Four engines responded to the alarm and began pumping streams of water into the trench. The water served only to reduce the height of the flame torch, but did nothing to quench it. With all the pressure of the twelve-inch main behind it, the escaping gas leaped through the water as if it had been so much confetti and the fire grew hotter, if anything.

At 10:45 Eighth avenue became lighted and one stream was directed against it, quickly quenching the fire. Reserves from three police stations

John G. Watmough of Philadelphia Also Willed Snug Sums to Other Servants.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—A caveat was filed here to-day against the probating of the will of the late John G. Watmough, who left his entire estate, valued at more than $1,000,000, to persons other than those who are considered heirs at law. To his wife's maid, who remained in his employ as a nurse after Mrs. Watmough's death, he left $100,000 absolute.

A number of servants were given amounts ranging from $200 to $1,000, and the residue of the estate was left to Ferdinand Keller and his wife, art collectors of this city.

The heirs at law number seven. The caveat was filed by Mrs. William Watmough Grier of Washington, D. C., wife of a deceased half brother, and James H. Watmough, a half brother. It is alleged in the caveat that Mr. Watmough, who was seventy-six years old, was of unsound mind and was unduly influenced when he drew this will.

HOY IS BITTEN BY DOG.

Ruben Frankfort, ten years old, of No. 554 East One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street, while playing in a vacant lot near his home this afternoon was bitten on the hand by a collie dog. The boy was taken to the Lebanon Hospital, where the wound was cauterized. The owner of the dog was notified to hold the animal for observation by the Department of Health.

came upon the scene before the fire had been burning many minutes. Because of the danger of further explosion and the ever-present anxiety over what might happen next in a condition so unusual, the police pushed the crowd back to Thirty-first street on the south and Thirty-fourth street on the north.

Hardly had this precaution been taken when there came a second explosion, more violent than the first and hidden under the solid pavement of Eighth avenue. So heavy was the tremor that nearby stores and tenements rocked and people on the sidewalks could feel the distinct heave under their feet. It was thought that this second detonation had occurred in the same main that was flaming and about 100 feet north of the spot where the laborer's pick.

Then another phenomenon came to increase the eerie feeling of dread on the part of the firemen and the repair crew from the gas company. Flaming gas filled the trolley slot of the Eighth avenue line, and up and down the street for a distance of a block from the several feet away and fell against his fellows. None was seriously injured, however; two received minor burns of the face and hands.

The instant of the explosion a solid column of flame shot up from the torn envelope of the pipe one hundred feet or more above the street level. The tip of it spread out like the fronds of a palm tree and waved with licking tongues of red fire as palm leaves shaken by a wind. There was a roaring from the vent five feet below the surface of the street that could be heard a block away.

Under orders of Deputy Fire Chief Martin all the fire engines in the houses on both sides of the avenue between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets were turned off after the families had been evicted.

FIREMEN TURN JOB OVER TO REPAIR CREWS.

When it became apparent that the efforts of the firemen were futile they desisted from shedding more water and the gas company's repair crews undertook the delicate and dangerous task of shutting off the supply of gas. It was a dangerous bit of work because wherever a cut was made there was the ever-present threat of a flare-back from the burning vent and a new explosion on the principle of the "pop" at the cook of a gas stove. Moreover, four cuts through the mains were necessary to check the flow of gas.

This was necessary because the twelve-inch main which was burning was coupled at the corner by a three-way connection with other pipes and a further connection with a sixteen-inch main on the east side of the avenue exists. There are no cut valves in the neighborhood. The method of shutting off the gas is to make a cut in the pipe, insert a rubber bag and inflate it with air until it completely fills the bore of the pipe.

Under orders of Deputy Fire Chief Martin all the fire engines in the houses on both sides of the avenue between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets were turned off after the families had been evicted.
